

The public is best served by having many individual owners of the various types of medias. Damn the best interests of the corporations and big business. The FCC is a government agency that is supposed to serve the best interests of the people! When one person or "agency" controls all the information media, the people can no longer trust the medias to give them all perspectives so that they can ascertain the truth. The "Dixie Chics" scandal is a prime example that has happened recently. Believing that there was freedom of speech, the "Dixie Chics" made a negative comment about President Bush. "Clear Channel" banned their music on all 1,200 of their stations. That is censorship, not freedom of speech. By the way, how did "Clear Channel" get possession of 1,200 stations? That's wrong in itself. One purpose of Govt. is to protect the people from monopolies.

I strongly oppose the proposed change in the "ownership" limitations of our medias.
